Virtuous Is the American 2-Party System

A Reuters dispatch from Rome reports that with 33 governments in 26 years Italy is so tired of politics she may turn to an authoritarian regime such as the Neo-Fascist party, heir of the late dictator Benito Mussolini.

"The root of Italy's problems," Reuters continues, "seems to lie in the proliferation of political parties. Nine major and many smaller parties run the gamut from extreme left to extreme right."

Italy is merely the latest European nation whose political misfortunes cast doubt upon the workability of the democratic system. France presented a similar picture when her multi-party system ran government into chaos and forced the handing over of arbitrary power to the late Charles de Gaulle.

Which should remind you that with all its petty faults our American two-party system has a great virtue—it enables the people to hold responsible for any grievance just one of two parties. That way lies stable and accountable government—in contrast to the chaos that many small parties have brought upon Europe.

Here may be a thought for Americans: Our European contemporaries seem to lack discipline in the confusion of multi-party squabbling; is it not possible that the rigid structure of two parties in the United States forces discipline upon our people and therefore creates stable government?

This is not to rule out a third party outburst on occasion. This writer wouldn't be honest if he didn't own up to supporting Bob LaFollette and his Progressive third party in 1924. But no third party has lasted for long in modern times. And for this we Americans should be grateful after viewing the chaos that unlimited politics has wrought in Europe.

Dams Controversial in 4th

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The controversial subject of dams made the rounds Monday with two candidates seeking the 4th District Congressional seat endorsing projects.

Richard S. Arnold of Texarkana, 35, who is the lawyer for a group of conservationists that has halted construction of the Gillham Dam on the Cossatot River in Southwest Arkansas, came out Monday in support of the proposed Dorcheat Bayou project.

And Richard Mays of El Dorado, who also is seeking that 4th District position being vacated by Rep. David Pryor, said he endorsed the Gillham Dam project.

Arnold is the only one of four announced Democratic congressional candidates who has paid his filing fee.

He told newsmen in Magnolia that if elected he would do "everything possible" to see that the project is built as soon as possible and would "definitely vote for" the project.

In a related development, the state Game and Fish Commission voted Monday to negotiate with Army Engineers for more land in the mitigation plan for the bayou project.

Richard Broach, administrative assistant for the commission, said the engineers proposed to buy 1,400 acres of hardwood bottom land below the proposed dam. The proposed lake, intended for water supply and recreation, will cover about 16,000 acres of hardwood bottom land.

Broach said the exchange of 16,000 acres for 1,400 acres is not a "very good swap."

The dam site is 10 miles southwest of Magnolia.

Mays said in an interview at Malvern that "God put man here to use and conserve natural resources—I think we are intended to use natural resources for the benefit of man and make his life more comfortable."

Mays said he thought the Gillham Dam would "benefit man and I think it should be completed."

Hard Fighting in Fourth Day in Northern Laos

SAIGON (AP) — Hard fighting raged today for the fourth day at the Long Cheng base in northern Laos, while in Cambodia 200 enemy rockets devastated three sections of Phnom Penh, killed at least 70 persons and wounded 120, according to official estimates.

In South Vietnam, North Vietnamese sappers invaded the big South Vietnamese base at Tay Ninh and killed 13 government troops.

Informed sources in Vientiane, the Laotian capital, said Laotian and Thai forces had recaptured a helicopter pad on the Skyline Ridge overlooking Long Cheng. But North Vietnamese troops holding two other positions in the center of the ridge continued to pound the base in the valley below with heavy mortar barrages.

The North Vietnamese were reported using frontal "human wave" assaults against the entrenched defenders, and American officials in Vientiane said they believed the Communists were suffering heavy losses.

Long Cheng, 78 miles north-east of Vientiane, is considered the most important government base in northern Laos.

The sapper attack at Tay Ninh, 60 miles northwest of Saigon, came before dawn. The sappers slipped in under cover of a rocket and mortar barrage and hurled satchel charges into a militia supply center on the base, killing 13 South Vietnamese soldiers and wounding 14.

At the same time enemy frogmen set off a mine on a ferry nearby, damaging it heavily.

The Tay Ninh base is drive headquarters for the three which 8,000 South Vietnamese troops are making against enemy base areas in eastern Cambodia.

The rocket bombardment of Phnom Penh early today was the heaviest attack on Cambodia's capital since the Vietnamese war spread to the neighboring country two years ago.

Many of the casualties were refugees driven from their homes by the war. One entire refugee shanty town was wiped out, and more than 100 huts were leveled.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said there were no American casualties.

Cambodian helicopter gunships patrolled the outskirts of the city after the attack and strafed at least 10 suspected rocket launching sites, all within an eight-mile radius of the center of the city. But there was no report of the results of the counterattack.

A Cambodian military spokesman also reported heavy fighting in the district town of Neuk Leong, 32 miles southeast of Phnom Penh on the highway to Saigon. The spokesman said it appeared that the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were trying to cut the highway and move westward toward the capital.

In the market area of Tuck Laak, less than a mile south-west of the downtown section, more than 20 rockets started raging fires that spread from house to house.

The flames devastated a three-acre area, and the fire department never arrived. Bodies were scattered about the area.

Genuine Memo Reported by ITT

By BILL KOSMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. says it has discovered the "genuine" memo-lobbyist, Dita Beard, but an associate of columnist Jack Anderson says the ITT said Monday that it has turned over to the Senate Judiciary Committee "important new evidence that the so-called Beard memorandum was a fraud."

The committee is investigating suggestions by Anderson that ITT won favorable settlement of an antitrust action by pledging heavy financial support for the Republican National Convention in San Diego.

To support the suggestions, Anderson released copies of a memo he attributed to Mrs. Beard of ITT's Washington office, written June 25, 1971. Eighteen days after Anderson released the memo, an affidavit attributed to Mrs. Beard described the memo as a fraud and a hoax.

ITT said Monday that it discovered, in the last few days, a memo by Mrs. Beard dated June 25, 1971. The firm said in a statement: "The genuine Beard memorandum is inconsistent with the Anderson memorandum."

At the same time, ITT released copies of affidavits from Susan Lichtman, Mrs. Beard's former secretary; William R. Merriam, head of the Washington ITT office, and ITT security administrator Russell J. Tagliarini, a former FBI agent.

Brit Hume, the Anderson associate who said he obtained the memo and interviewed Mrs. Beard twice about it, rejected ITT's claim. Mrs. Beard, who has been hospitalized in Denver for several days, is expected to be released late this week or over the weekend. A judiciary subcommittee plans to question her in the hospital Wednesday.

The inquiry was instituted at the request of acting Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst, who said he wanted to disprove Anderson's allegations. Anderson had disputed Kleindienst's claim that he had taken no part in the settlement.

Muskie Needs Illinois Vote to Boost Shaken Campaign

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine battles two Democratic rivals in dual Illinois presidential primary contests today, seeking a boost for his shaken White House campaign in the crowded elections ahead.

Two million Illinois voters were expected to cast ballots, well over half of them in the Democratic primary.

The primary matched Muskie and former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota in a presidential preference poll, and Muskie, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and an uncommitted slate of candidates in a contest for 160 of the 170 Illinois delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

At least half the delegates, and probably more, are expected to be chosen uncommitted to any candidate, but set to follow the lead of Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Muskie is expected to win easily in the preferential contest, which is not binding, and to capture more delegates than McGovern.

The question is one of margins, and Muskie needs big ones to regain the campaign momentum he lost in the first two primaries—New Hampshire, where he won with 46.4 per cent of the vote, and Florida, where he ran a fourth with 9 per cent.

In the Democratic preference race, the stakes were only psychological. McCarthy said he expected to get at least 30 per cent of the vote. "Anybody ought to get 30 per cent," he said on election eve.

Muskie managers aimed for at least a 65 per cent showing against what they considered a McCarthy-McGovern tandem in the preferential and delegate contests.

A big, two-way showing in Illinois would give Muskie a badly needed lift as he heads into Wisconsin for an April 4 primary that matches the entire Democratic field, with 12 candidates on the ballot.

Steel Plant Ruling Will Be Appealed

Ernest DeLaney of Charlotte North Carolina, one of the Attorneys for Nucor Corporation, said today that he had received a copy of the Federal Court decision in the case of Nucor Corporation vs Tennessee Forging Steel Services, Inc., and the City of Hope, et al, and was sending to the court his notice of appeal in the matter.

The appeal, if perfected, will go to the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis, Missouri.

The Star asked James H. Pilkinton of Hope, one of the attorneys for the defendants, what effect an appeal would have on construction plans for the local plant, which has already been started. Mr. Pilkinton said that he did not know until he conferred further with the industry officials.

"None, I hope," he stated. "The U. S. District court decision was so clear cut that I do not see how an appeal will avail Nucor Corporation anything unless, of course, all they hope to do is delay the local industry in getting into production. The law gives them the right to appeal," he said.

25 Prisoners Escape Jail in Cincinnati

By BILL VALE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The FBI was asked today to join in a search for 25 prisoners, four of them charged with murder, who escaped from the Hamilton County jail in downtown Cincinnati Monday night.

The inmates, including four women, overpowered guards and obtained handguns in fleeing the sixth-floor lockup in civilian clothes.

Officers initially reported three escapees were caught but H. D. Culler, chief deputy sheriff, said 27 persons made the initial break and only two men were recaptured within the jail building.

Culler said the break apparently was engineered by four prisoners and that one used a foreign made .32-caliber gun at the start of the break.

The FBI was asked to help after officials said a federal charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement could be filed against escapees.

As the prisoners fled, officials said, they seized four pistols and a teargas gun. Police at one point arrested 30 suspects but only one was identified as an escapee and the others were released.

A taxi driver reported that three escapees forced him to drive them to nearby Dayton, then fled on foot.

The jail, built for about 175 prisoners, housed about 275 when the break occurred at 9:30 p.m. Officials said seven jailers, the normal complement for the hour, were on duty.

Judge Joseph Luebberts of Hamilton County Municipal Court was working in his fifth floor office and was taken hostage briefly before being released unharmed. A custodian in the courthouse and a night watchman were tied up and robbed, but neither was hurt.

Harry Culler, the jail's chief deputy, said the break started when a trusty, William Butts, 28, who faces an armed robbery charge, pulled a .32-caliber pistol on a paraplegic in charge of the jail office. Culler said Butts sold candy from a concession area in the jail.

The prisoners seized four handguns and one teargas gun.

Pay Board Labor Members May Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of the five labor members on President Nixon's Pay Board reportedly is on the brink of quitting the board to protest White House wage-price regulations.

"We're closer to walking off the Pay Board than at any time since Phase 2 began," said one high source in the AFL-CIO, which has three members on the labor-industry-public board.

One Pay Board member, President Floyd Smith of the AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said he is ready to vote at a labor summit meeting Wednesday to walk off the board.

A high source in the United Auto Workers said, however, that his union isn't ready to give up its seat on the Pay Board, and the Teamsters union also is reported reluctant to quit. The Teamsters and Auto Workers are not affiliated with the 13.6-million-member AFL-CIO. The five labor members previously have worked closely on Pay Board matters.

"I don't believe we're doing much good sitting there, and I don't think it would affect us very much if we left," Smith said of his desire that labor quit the Pay Board.

He said he believed the other AFL-CIO representatives on the Pay Board—AFL-CIO President George Meany and President I.W. Abel of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers—share his view.

But a source close to Auto Workers President Leonard

Woodcock said he does not think the labor members will resign from the Pay Board.

"I don't think that's going to happen. If we leave the board, we would get it in the eye worse," the source said.

The Auto Workers and Machinists unions suffered the first contract rejection when a majority of the 15-member Pay Board voted to order wage hikes for thousands of aerospace workers rolled back from about 12 per cent to roughly 8 per cent.

The latest Pay Board rejection ordered pay increases for 15,000 West Coast longshoremen reduced from 20.9 per cent to 14.9 per cent. That prompted Meany to call Wednesday's labor summit meeting.

Sources said Wednesday's meeting at AFL-CIO headquarters may also decide whether the longshoremen's unions will follow through on earlier hints to renew strikes on all coasts to protest the contract rejection.

Vote Requirement Ruled Illegal

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a 6 to 1 vote the Supreme Court today struck down Tennessee's one-year residence requirement for voting in state and congressional elections.

The court, in an opinion delivered by Justice Thurgood Marshall, said the one-year barrier did not serve a "compelling" interest of the state and interfered with the right of citizens to travel and take up homes in new states.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger stood alone in dissent. He disputed that it is a violation of the Constitution "to require newcomers to be exposed to state and local problems for a reasonable period such as one year before voting."

$27,448 Grant for Center Here

Congressman John Paul Hammerschmidt's office informed The Star Tuesday that the Office of Civil Defense has approved a $27,448 grant for a new emergency operating center to be located at the Highway District 3 Headquarters on Highway 29 north of Hope.

The total for the project is $54,896 with the difference being provided by the State.

This will provide an area center for use in event of natural and other disasters.

Another Irish Killing

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army killed another British soldier in Londonderry Monday night and a bomb exploded in County Down early today, but the bomb casualties were slight.

The Provisional wing of the IRA said it killed 19-year-old John Taylor in retaliation for "the murder of civilians by troops."

He was the 285th person to die in Northern Ireland's communal warfare since August 1969, and the 28th this month.

An estimated 50 pounds of gelignite exploded in a parked car in the town of Banbridge just after midnight, wrecking a drapery store and damaging 60 other shops. Flying glass gashed several persons, including a policeman. No warning was given, and it was the first such explosion in the predominantly Protestant town of 6,000 which is 25 miles southwest of Belfast.

The IRA so far had neither admitted nor denied planting the 100-pound bomb that killed six persons and wounded 146 outside a Protestant newspaper in Belfast Monday.

Many Firms May Have to Roll Back Prices

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A tentative Price Commission study indicates that many large firms may have to roll back prices because they have illegally increased their profit margins.

Officials say an initial sampling of quarterly reports filed by about 160 large firms shows that roughly 10 per cent appear to have increased their profit margins.

Unless these apparent increases are due to arithmetical errors or seasonal profit variations, they violate commission guidelines. The rules say generally that prices may rise to offset increased costs, but not so much as to raise profit margins above the average for the best two of the preceding three fiscal years.

"If it's illegal we'll initiate some rollback price actions," commission Chairman C. Jackson Grayson said in an interview. "The staff is studying that right now."

Grayson noted that many firms have predictable seasonal variations in their profit margins, and said such increases don't constitute violations.

An official responsible for the study said his findings are still tentative.

He didn't name the firms involved, and said he could draw no sound conclusions from the preliminary data.

The study is the first on the

Time Closing on Possible Candidates for Governor

By ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — As the time draws close for possible candidates for governor to either fish or cut bait, few apparently are willing or able to cast their hooks into the political water.

With little more than two weeks left before the noon April 4 filing deadline, there are only three declared candidates—Gov. Dale Bumpers and Little-known state Rep. George Davis of Horatio for the Democratic nomination and former Welfare Commissioner Len Blaylock in the Republican primary—compared to a field of 13 after the ticket closed in 1970.

No other possible candidate is firmly rumored, although a number of names has been tossed about.

Veteran political observers doubt that Bumpers will receive no more opposition. And there are reports that an unidentified opposition group with influence is circulating for someone to back in the Democratic primary.

Two reasons most often given for the paucity of candidates are Bumpers' formidability, buttressed by the tradition that Arkansas voters give their governors second terms, and a lack of money to finance a campaign, or a combination of both reasons.

Even Bumpers, it is said, has not yet built a campaign treasury, although it is doubtful that an incumbent governor would have trouble raising money.

"It's pretty hard to beat a man for governor for a second term," says veteran state Sen. Clarence Bell of Parkin, who has been mentioned as a possible gubernatorial candidate but who says he is not interested.

"Frankly, I don't think anybody in the state who is considering running could be at him. He's made no serious mistakes. There are no issues to run on. Not many of them can out-charisma him ...

"A lot of the politicians are against him, but the people are for him."

There is speculation that other races have captured the attention of money sources, that they are not inclined to contribute to a campaign against a strong-looking Bumpers and that they would be cautious about where they placed their money if they did back someone against him.

Perrin Jones, publisher of the Searcy Daily Citizen, had given serious thought to running against the governor but bowed out last week, saying that he could not find the financial support. Jones said, however, he could change his mind if the support materialized.

According to the lack-of-money conjecture, campaign contributions have been attracted mostly to the Democratic Senate race among Sen. John I. McClellan, Congressman David Pryor and Bryant attorney Ted Boswell, with McClellan the chief beneficiary.

Supposedly, interest in the governor's race has been further diluted by the congressional campaign for Pryor's position in the 4th District, the attorney general's race between two young prosecuting attorneys—Jim Guy Tucker of Little Rock and Bill Thompson of Fort Smith—and the fact that, because of the legislative reapportionment, all seats in the state Senate as well as all House positions will be up for election.

Mack Harbour, a hospital administrator at Paragould, had raised the threat that he or someone else from East Arkansas would run against Bumpers because of dissatisfaction with the governor's actions in the Office of Economic Opportunity approval of a $1.2 million grant to a health clinic for the poor in racially troubled Lee County. But that possibility apparently has now diminished.

Former Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, who finished third in the 1970 Democratic gubernatorial primary, has been mentioned as a possible candidate for either governor, Congress in the 4th District or attorney general again, but he has not said whether he has any political plans. Former state Supreme Court Justice Jim Johnson, the 1966 Democratic gubernatorial nominee, has been mentioned as a possible opponent of Bumpers, but he, too, is not saying whether he will run for public office.

State Rep. Wayne Hampton of Stuttgart says he was approached to run for governor but he did not give it serious thought. The name of Joe Rasmussen of Bella Vista also has crept into the speculation, but he says he has given the race no thought and has no plans to run.

Fair, Mild for Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies and mild temperatures are expected in Arkansas Wednesday.

Showers were expected to end in most sections of the state by late this afternoon. Precipitation began in the western portion of the state Monday night as a weak cold front moved slowly toward the state.

The front, located this morning from eastern Oklahoma and central Texas to northern Mexico, is expected to move through Arkansas tonight.

Passage of the front is expected to have little effect on temperatures in the state.

Highs Monday were above normal for the 11th straight day, ranging from 72 at Harrison to 79 at Little Rock and Pine Bluff. Highs today should be in the 70s with highs Wednesday in the upper 60s in the west to mid 70s elsewhere.

Lows tonight are forecast in the low 40s to low 50s.

Overnight lows include Fayetteville 50, Harrison 52, Jonesboro 58, Pine Bluff 59, Texarkana 57, El Dorado 58, Memphis 61, Little Rock 57 and Fort Smith 49.

Rainfall reports for the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m. include .01 at Harrison and Jonesboro, .12 at Texarkana, .06 at El Dorado, .54 at Fort Smith, .27 at Little Rock, .21 at Pine Bluff and .59 at Fayetteville.

Grievances Aired in Walkout

LAKE CITY, Ark. (AP) — Pupils and parents aired grievances at a special meeting of the Lake City School Board Monday night, charging, among other things, that teachers used abusive language to students and that the school's bathrooms were unsanitary.

The meeting was called after pupils walked out of Lake City High School Monday morning to protest the dismissal of Irma Boone, a journalism teacher, and the conditions cited in the grievances.

The walkout involved about 75 pupils, approximately half of the enrollment in grades nine through 12.

Mrs. Boone had been employed in the district for 38 years. The board voted March 9 not to renew her contract. No reason was given.

At the board meeting Monday night, pupils accused the board and particularly Supt. Hobert Reagan of having little sensitivity for their needs. Pupils said classes were overcrowded, teachers used abusive language in class, bathrooms were unsanitary and minus soap or towels, rats, mice and roaches were common in the school and student teachers should not be allowed to wear hot pants to school.

One parent at the meeting called for an immediate audit of the school.

Reagan said he could understand some of the complaints, especially the overcrowding, but he said he felt there was a serious lack of communication between school board members, pupils and parents.

He said the board would take all testimony given at the meeting under advisement.

No action was taken against those involved in the walkout, but the board said the problem would be taken up at the next board meeting. The board said Mrs. Boone could request a meeting with the board.

Jury Picked in Murder Case

SHERIDAN, Ark. (AP) — A jury of five men and seven women was seated in Circuit Court here Monday for the fourth first-degree murder trial of Roger D. Mosby, 25, of Redfield.

The state has waived the death penalty.

Mosby is charged in the knife slaying June 3, 1968, of Ronald E. Lovelace, a Little Rock taxi driver whose body was found in Grant County.

At the first trial, Mosby and a codefendant, Albert N. Williamson, 24, of Little Rock, were convicted and sentenced to death. The Supreme Court ordered a new trial because cross-examining confessions had been used.

Mosby was convicted again in December 1969 and once more sentenced to die. The Supreme Court ordered another new trial because of an error in the selection of the jury. In the third trial last June, the jury could not reach a verdict. Williamson, meanwhile, pleaded guilty at his second trial and was sentenced to life imprisonment.

In testimony Monday, Dr. Rodney Carlton, state medical examiner, said he examined the body of Lovelace and determined that the man died from a stab wound in the neck.

No Bail for Accused Man

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) — A judge has ruled that Juan Corona is not entitled to bail pending his trial on charges of murdering 25 men.

The attorney for the 38-year-old farm labor contractor sought bail for him after the California Supreme Court ruled that the death penalty violated the state constitution. He argued that the state law prohibiting bail for persons charged with capital crimes was no longer applicable.

Superior Court Judge Richard E. Patton denied the bail Monday. He cited a California Supreme Court decision Friday that modified its original ruling by holding that bail should still be denied to individuals charged with what were capital crimes if "proof of guilt is evident or the presumption thereof is great."

AM&N Gets Big Grant

Spittoons Go in Storage

FRIENDSHIP, Wis. (AP) — When Hugh Keach of Arkdale leaves the Adams County Board Tuesday, the last of the spittoons in regular use at the courthouse will be put into storage.

"I suppose there's a few lyin' round someplace in the building, but mine's the only one that gets regular use," Keach said.

"I ain't gonna miss the county board," he said. "I get too tired sittin' there all day long and then havin' to milk 10 cows or do other chores around the farm."

Afternoon board sessions often overlapped with his usual nap time, and Keach had trouble staying awake during discussions.

"Howard Williams generally kicks me in the shins to wake me up if we're votin' on something," he said.

The 71-year-old Keach has been chewing tobacco for 60 years. He had two chewing buddies on the board last year, but both left.

British Act to Meet Foreign Competition

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government today announced sweeping measures to help British industry gear for tough competition within the European Common Market and to slash unemployment.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber also told the House of Commons old-age pensions will be raised by 12½ per cent.

State funds, he said, will be made available for projects designed to bring down the country's record high unemployment.

Introducing the government's annual tax budget, Barber said its primary aim was "to help British industry to modernize, re-equip and reorganize to meet the challenge of greater international competition" when Britain joins the Common Market next Jan. 1.

He said he intended to force national output of goods and services up from its present 0.91 per cent rate of annual increase to 5 per cent by the end of this year.

"Our task is to lay the foundations for sustained growth over a prolonged period ahead," Barber said.

The chancellor also announced measures to free the transfer of capital to countries within the sterling area and to Britain's future partners in the Common Market.

These measures, he said, will go into effect Wednesday.

2 Injured in Wreck

Two persons were injured in a two-vehicle collision Monday afternoon on Interstate 30 about four miles west of Hope.

Mrs. Opal Whidden of Jacksonville, Fla. is reported doing satisfactory in Branch General Hospital Tuesday where she was taken by a Hempstead Ambulance Service car. Her husband and driver of the car, Audie Whidden, sustained a minor arm injury.

Driver of the second vehicle, Mrs. Paul Bain of Hope, was not injured. Both vehicles were heavily damaged. State Trooper Neel investigated.

Inside the Hope City limits late yesterday vehicles driven by Aaron Skinner and Robert T. Jordan collided on Highway 67 west. There were no injuries and property damage was minor, according to City Officers McCulley and Stovall.

Hughes Didn't Design Bra

NEW YORK (AP) — Ginger Rogers remembers him as a terrific dancer. Yvonne de Carlo says he designed a dress for her. Jane Russell says he didn't design a brassiere for her.

The man was Howard Hughes and the three actresses were among several who recalled for the April issue of Ladies Home Journal their acquaintances with the billionaire industrialist who now lives in seclusion.

Miss Rogers said, "Howard was one of the best dancers I ever knew, and fascinating to be with. Terribly bright and intelligent. But he was immersed in his work."

Miss De Carlo recalled, "He even went with me while I shopped for a new suit, but he didn't like anything I tried on. So he designed a dress for me on a piece of scratch paper."

Miss Russell wore a special brassiere in "The Outlaw," the film that made her famous. But contrary to one recent report, she said Hughes "never designed the metal bra I wore in that picture."

Nixon to Thank Turkey Official

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, set to sign a bill today to fight narcotic addiction, says he will personally thank the visiting Turkish prime minister for that country's ban on opium-pottery growing.

Prime Minister Nihat Erim is scheduled to receive an official welcome this morning on the South Lawn of the White House, followed by talks with Nixon and a state dinner tonight.

The White House said Monday Nixon would personally salute Turkey for joining an international effort to cut down the supply of heroin by its decree making poppy growing illegal beginning this fall.

The White House said also Nixon would sign in noontime ceremonies a law he requested establishing a Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention, to work in fields of education, treatment, rehabilitation and prevention of addiction. Nixon set up such an office on an interim basis last June, headed by special presidential consultant Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe.

The President made a three-hour trip to New York Monday to discuss drug abuse with Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and New York City and state police. Nixon denounced heroin trafficking as "the most reprehensible crime" for which "there should be no sympathy whatever and no limit insofar as the criminal penalties are concerned."

Luci Had Eye Disorder

NEW YORK (AP) — Luci Johnson Nugent says a eye disorder as a child made her belligerent, resentful, unhappy and a poor scholar.

In an interview with Redbook magazine, the daughter of former President Lyndon B. Johnson says that although tests showed her with normal 20-20 vision, she was unable to use both eyes together to interpret visual information.

"As a result I was belligerent, resentful and unhappy," Mrs. Nugent said in the interview published Monday. "My marks in school were terrible. I came from a family of achievers and I couldn't know a small degree of success."

Mrs. Nugent, now the mother of two children, said her grades and her life improved after a doctor diagnosed the problem and prescribed glasses and exercises.

NEW YORK (AP) — When NBC's "World Premiere" feature, called "Banacek," began Monday night, it seemed that the pilot film might be a forerunner to the return of the sleek, brainy sleuth missing since Ellery Queen and the Thin Man disappeared. Before the station break at the end of the first hour, however, it appeared that the network might be flirting with the idea of X-rated whodunits.

The portion involved an explicit and temporary relationship between the sleuth and a lady insurance investigator who founced around their motel suite in a peignoir cut down to there. It was part of an intriguing introduction to an interesting character, but just window-dressing.

George Peppard's "T. Banacek" is a distinctive investigator. He calls his business "restorations" because he solves cases for insurance companies when they come to a dead end, and he collects 10 per cent of what he recovers. He lives in opulence in Boston, smokes long, skinny cigars, and never loses his cool or a fight. The character has great possibilities.

The plot was a bit of a let-down—finding an armored car with more than a ton of gold aboard which had disappeared in the desert after its two armed guards were shot dead. With two hours to work out a story that could have been neatly encompassed in 60 minutes, there were endless red herrings.

ABC launched a new game show in the early afternoon, "Split Second." It is another half hour in which members of the studio audience answer questions for prizes. This one is not particularly different from the assorted quiz shows that fill the morning and early afternoon hour except that it moves at such a furious pace that even the audience at home has difficulty following the game.

With six such network programs between 10:30 a.m. and 1 p.m. it is hard to see the necessity for a seventh.

Charlie Chaplin Is Returning

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The last hurdle in the way of honoring Charlie Chaplin with a star on Hollywood Boulevard's "Walk of Fame" has been removed.

The City Council voted 11 to 3 Monday to approve a star for the baggy-trousered, derby-hatted film comedian, who left the United States 20 years ago upset by public criticism of his leftwing politics.

Chaplin's star will be installed April 10 in a ceremony sponsored by the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce.

The Generation Gap

A Costly Change of Mind

Dear Helen and Sue:
I had plans for a large wedding. My five bridesmaids gave me three showers, with many lovely gifts. They also put deposits of $25 each on their gowns, which were specially made and can't be returned.

Then—I realized I didn't love the guy and broke our engagement.
It's three months later and my new guy is from a neighboring city. We've made different friends. We're planning to be married. I had a feeling things were going this way, so I didn't return the shower gifts and put off a decision on the $25 deposits (which I know I should refund to my girl friends). My wedding

Play At Your Own Risk

Eddie and the corner grocer were boon companions. Often, when business was slow, the two men would engage in friendly scuffling around the store. One day, the grocer shoved Eddie a little too vigorously. Eddie lost his footing, fell against the counter, and cracked two ribs. That ended their friendship. In short order, Eddie sued the grocer for damages on grounds of assault and battery. But a court turned him down, saying his claim was barred by the doctrine of "assumption of risk."

This doctrine has wide application in all kinds of playful and recreational activities. "One who takes part in a sport," said one court, "accepts the dangers that are obvious and necessary, just as a fencer accepts the risk of a thrust by his antagonist."

Most often, the doctrine has been applied in golf. Thus: A golfer shanked an iron shot, and his ball struck another player standing far to the right. Admittedly, he had not yelled "Fore!" before taking his swing. Nevertheless, he could not fairly have foreseen danger to anyone so far off of range.

Result: a court ruled that the victim should not collect damages. The court said this was the kind of risk he had assumed by going onto a golf course in the first place.

But the doctrine does not apply to risks that are not "natural" to the sport—that are due instead of somebody's misconduct.

In another case two fishermen were sitting in a rowboat when one, trying to make a backward cast, hooked his companion in the cheek. Sued later for damages, he sought refuge in the doctrine of assumption of risk. "Accidents," he said, "will happen."

But the court said accidents like this will not happen if fishermen are reasonably careful with their hooks. The victim had not assumed a risk, said the court, that was preventable by plain common sense.

Cancer Transmission Still Unproven Idea

By BILL STOCKTON

AP Science Writer
STANDARD, Calif. (AP) — The telltale biochemical fingerprints of a suspected human cancer virus have been found in the healthy relatives and friends of cancer victims, a scientist said Monday.

The discovery supports a provocative but still unproven idea that some cancers might be transmitted from person to person by a virus.

Dr. S. Kingsley Sanders of the Sloan Kettering Institute for Cancer Research in New York discussed on Monday the results of the institute's latest work with scientists from 11 countries meeting at Stanford University for a symposium on Hodgkin's disease—cancer of the lymphatic system.

Sanders and his colleagues reported last September evidence that two different virus-like particles exist in cancer cells taken from Hodgkin's disease patients and grown in the laboratory. The scientists said then the next step was to test relatives, friends and others close to Hodgkin's disease victims for antibodies to the cancer virus particles. Antibodies would be produced by the body's natural defense mechanism after exposure to the virus and would be the fingerprints of the virus' presence.

These studies, which Sanders said Monday were preliminary and incomplete, showed positive antibody tests in 60 per cent of those who did not have Hodgkin's disease but were closely associated with a victim of the disease.

Studies of "normal" individuals with no history of contact with the disease showed only 30 per cent positive, Sanders said. He stressed in an interview that there still is no conclusive evidence the virus particles cause Hodgkin's disease.

The immediate importance of the findings, Sanders said, is that scientists now have a powerful tool to test large populations for evidence of the virus particles. Such data then could be correlated with geographic and environmental factors that seem to influence the disease.

Notes Form Golf Trail

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:
Lee Trevino's gimpy left knee bothers him in cold, wet weather—but not enough to undergo surgery.
"They wanted me to have an operation on it about a year ago," said Trevino, who was hurt when he accidentally stepped on a golf ball a couple of years ago.
"I asked 'em how long it would keep me out. The doctor said, 'about 14 weeks.' I said, 'No way. No way at all. I can't afford it.' I could afford the operation, of course, but I couldn't afford the money I'd lose from the tour."
Trevino, incidentally, has ordered a six wood for use at the U.S. Open at Pebble Beach, Calif. this summer.
"I've carried a five wood for years," Trevino said. "I can get more loft with the woods than I can long irons and I want a six wood for Pebble."

Jimmy Jamieson has what you might call a mixed bag. The chubby young man from Moline, Ill., was going over his clubs after shooting a course record 63 in a recent tournament.
He has Ping, Spalding and Powerbilt irons, Golf Craft woods, a Hagen wedge, a Hogan sand iron and a Spalding putter.

scoring Fuqua.
Oral Roberts is still in this tournament because Memphis State failed to hold the nation's second-leading scorer in check last Saturday night. Fuqua connected for 42 points, six over his 36.1-point average, as the Midwestern independent Titans upset the Tigers 94-74.
"Nobody has to tell me that Oral Roberts is for real," says Mulzoff, referring to detractors who claim that the Titans don't belong in a post-season tournament because of a patsy scheduled.

"Now, if I ever win the Open, I've got 'em covered," he said, grinning.
Some of the tourists are wondering openly about the new format for the Match Play championship at Pinehurst, N.C., this fall.
It's complicated. Eight players are exempt. They are the winners of the four major championships, the defending champion and the next three leading money winners from last year.
The other eight come from the $100,000 Liggett and Myers Open, being played simultaneously on the same Country Club of North Carolina course. The first eight players after 36 holes of competition in that tournament are transferred to the Match Play brackets.
"But suppose," said Lou Graham, "I had two hot rounds and have a five stroke lead at the end of 36 holes. Now, I'm playing in a $100,000 tournament, with a chance for $20,000 and full rights, a year's exemption, a spot in the Masters, everything."
"Now they tell me I have to go into the Match Play and play Jack Nicklaus head to head in the first round. Do I have the option of saying 'No, I'd rather continue in the medal play tournament?'"
The answer, Lou, is No. You do not have the option. The top eight must go into the match play bracket.

Princeton plays Niagara in tonight's second game to establish the rest of Thursday night's semifinal field.
Jacksonville stopped Lafayette 87-76 and Maryland turned back Syracuse 71-65 Monday night in quarter-final games to make it to the semis.
Fuqua, the big shot of Oral Roberts' run-and-gun offense, has a chance to become the nation's top scorer. He's on the verge of catching Dwight Lamar, who closed out the season with Southwestern Louisiana with a 36.34 average. Fuqua's current mark is 36.14.
If he repeats Saturday's performance, he'll move into the No. 1 spot.
Tonight's matches follow a pair of tense games Monday night.
Clearly superior Jacksonville was really given a battle by unheralded Lafayette in the first one and didn't pull away from the Leopards until late in the game.
Lafayette Coach Tom Davis said he was told before the game by one of Jacksonville's assistant coaches: "If you beat us, it'll set basketball back 20 years."
They almost did—until the Dolphins' brawny and quick front line of David Brent, Ernie Fleming and Abe Steward took over.
Lafayette stayed with the powerful Florida independent in the first half and only trailed by 46-44 at intermission.
But Jacksonville's Big Three crushed any Lafayette upset hopes, taking command of the backboards. Brent, especially, was impressive. He scored 20 points, stole 10 rebounds and blocked 5 shots while playing part-time. The 7-foot center sat out about half the match because of foul trouble.
Maryland, also a big favorite over Syracuse, didn't have it much easier. The Terps appeared to be on their way to an effortless victory when building a 35-20 lead in the first half as Syracuse shot a horrendous 18 per cent.

Sado Heads Derby Field

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Sado, ruler of the handicap ranks at Oaklawn Park until last Saturday, heads a field of 27 nominated for the $50,000 Oaklawn Handicap at 1 1/16 miles next Saturday.
Sado, owned by W.C. Partee of Magnolia and trained by Harold "Baldy" Tinker, was assigned top weight of 124 pounds.
No No Billy, owned by F.R. Schleicher, is among the horses running at other tracks nominated for Saturday's big handicap race. No No Billy, who has been running in Florida, was assigned 120.
"He would add a little color to the field," Oaklawn Racing Secretary Allan W. Lavin said, "but we've got a heckuva race on the grounds without anybody shipping in."
Lavin is waiting to hear how many of the nominees actually will be sent to the post.
Sado had swamped the handicap division until last Saturday in the $25,000 Razorback Handicap, when he carried 127 pounds and started from the No. 14 post position.
He finished out of the money in that race, won by Gage Line, with Elegant Heir second.
Elegant Heir, owned by Robert Ballis, was given second high weight of 122 pounds for the Oaklawn Handicap. Elegant Heir was second to Sado a week before last Saturday's outing.

Baseball Reserve Clause Slavery, Court Is Told

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball's reserve clause, totally binding an athlete to the team that owns his contract, is a violation of antitrust laws and the antislavery amendment to the Constitution, the Supreme Court has been told.
Arthur J. Goldberg, a former Supreme Court justice and now lawyer for former major league outfielder Curt Flood, told the high court Monday the clause is "the most obvious restraint known to man."
Any player who tries to break his contract for a better offer with another team is blacklisted from organized baseball, Goldberg said.
There is "a group boycott and blacklist not only in this country but also in Mexico and Japan," Goldberg told the court.

LA Has Inside on Pro Super Bowl

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — The Super Bowl VII sweepstakes began today at the National Football League meetings with the strong possibility that the game would be awarded to the city of Los Angeles—the scene of the crime perpetrated against the NFL in 1966.
In 1966, Los Angeles was awarded the first Super Bowl, the much ballyhooed meeting between the Green Bay Packers of the NFL and the Kansas City Chiefs of the American Football League. But when super Sunday dawned, there were more than 30,000 empty seats in the Los Angeles Coliseum.
The lingering distaste left in the mouths of the NFL's owners, however, seems to have diminished during the past five years and heading into today's sessions Los Angeles seemed to have an edge over Houston, Miami, New Orleans and Dallas—rated in that order—in a wide-open race.
Here's the way the race looked at a glance:
Los Angeles—Rozelle disrupted the blacking out of the nation's No. 2 television market and past history as major factors, leaving only one strike against the city, the fact the Rams could possibly be in the Super Bowl. But it meets every other prime specification—93,000-seat stadium, warm weather, hotel facilities.
Houston—Rice Stadium is the candidate, and the major factor in its favor is that almost undoubtedly it would be a neutral site. The Oilers don't figure to be in the Super Bowl, and besides the Oilers play in the Astrodome. Weather is warm enough and there are 80,000 seats.
Miami—Has it all—weather, hotels, stadium plus three past successes. But the Dolphins have to be considered Super Bowl contenders, and that could be a major strike.
New Orleans—With neither the weather nor the hotels, New Orleans is a longshot for a second successive hosting, but just might find itself in the running if a deadlock occurs.
Dallas—Biggest strike against the city is the Cowboys, defending Super Bowl champions. If the game were awarded to Dallas, it likely would go to the Cotton Bowl rather than Cowboys' Texas Stadium.

The NFL owners spent most of their time at the opening Monday sessions dealing with constitutional amendments of little general interest. But Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he had cautioned the assembled owners about the sport's "trouble spots."
Among the spots Rozelle singled out were:
—The growing feeling that pro football is more of a business than a sport.
—The trend in litigation against the league with eight antitrust suits currently pending.
—The threat of states and cities extending legalized off-track betting to include pro team sports.
—The possible decline in fan interest due to a drop-off in scoring in the NFL.

good players would be bought by the wealthiest teams in the largest cities, destroying the sport's competitive balance.
Specifically at issue is the court's 1922 decision declaring baseball exempt from antitrust laws that prohibit business arrangements to stifle competition.
In the intervening years, however, other professional sports have been compelled by the courts to loosen to some extent teams' holds on players. Goldberg said the time has come for baseball to follow suit.
The court heard oral arguments from Goldberg and lawyers representing baseball club owners and Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The justices took the case under advisement and are expected to rule on legality of the clause by June.
Lawyers for the major league teams argued that Flood's dispute is not a legal issue but a union-management problem that should be settled through collective bargaining.
They also described the clause as the corner stone of baseball without which all the

Completes Golden Gloves Collection

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Duane Bobick completed his collection of amateur heavyweight championships Monday night with a victory in the 45th annual national Golden Gloves Tournament of Champions.
The Bowlin, Minn., boxer on leave from the U.S. Navy already held the AAU and Pan-American titles and others won in the armed forces and in international competition.
Bobick's stiffest test Monday was in a semifinal match against Nick Wells, Las Vegas, whom he narrowly defeated in the Pan-American trials last year.
Wells fought gamely after Bobick clobbered him with a right for a standup knockdown count just before the bell ending the first round. Bobick disposed of Wells in the third round flooring him with another right. The referee stopped the fight.
Bobick made quicker work of Steve Williams of Fort Worth in the championship match and ended the fight at 1:30 of the second with a technical knockout.
The biggest surprise of the night was the dethroning of Sam NeSmith of Indianapolis in the 156-pound division. NeSmith had disposed of his quarterfinal

Owner Feeling Better

By HAL BOCK

Mrs. Joan Payson can stop holding her breath. Her National League baseball franchise, sometimes known as the New York Mets and mostly identified as Tom Seaver, is healthy again.
Mrs. Payson pays Tom Terrific $120,000 per season to exercise his right arm for the Mets and when that high-priced limb began aching a couple of weeks ago, it caused no small amount of concern around the club's spring training camp.
Seaver worked four innings of the Mets' 4-3 exhibition loss against Los Angeles and was touched for three runs. He said afterward he was satisfied with the performance since he had not worked in 12 days.
In other spring training games Monday, Detroit downed the New York Yankees 3-1, Philadelphia shut out Kansas City 1-0, St. Louis topped Cincinnati 3-1, Tokyo's Lotte Orions edged San Francisco 2-1, Houston whacked Atlanta 10-5, Montreal downed Texas 6-2, Boston edged the Chicago White Sox 3-2, Oakland outlasted the Chicago Cubs 7-6, San Diego nipped Milwaukee 3-2 and Cleveland jarred California 8-5.

While Seaver was setting Met minds at ease, Don Sutton worked six scoreless innings for Los Angeles, permitting just three hits and striking out six.
Detroit's Joe Coleman, for example, pitched six innings against the Yankees and the first 5 2/3 were hitless. Rich McKinney managed the only New York hit against Coleman.
Billy Champion and rookie Rick Fusari shared a four-hit shutout as Philadelphia nipped Kansas City. The Phils managed only five hits against Paul Splittorff, Bill Butler and Ted Abernathy.
Rick Wise permitted just one unearned run and four hits in six innings as St. Louis topped Cincinnati.
A name out of big league baseball's past, outfielder George Altman, slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and the visiting Tokyo Lotte Orions beat San Francisco.
Houston exploded for six runs in the sixth inning and jolted Atlanta.
Ron Fairly tagged a three-run homer, helping Montreal whip the Texas Rangers. Ernie McNally worked six innings for the Expos, allowing both Ranger runs and four hits.
Boston scratched out a pair of first inning runs on Tommy Harper's single, a double by Luis Aparicio and two infield outs and edged the White Sox. Wilbur Wood worked seven innings for Chicago, allowing only two hits after the first.
Dwain Anderson and Joe Rudi each had three hits and three runs batted in, leading Oakland past the Chicago Cubs.
Clay Kirby of San Diego and Jim Lorborg of Milwaukee each hurled six strong innings, allowing one run apiece, and the Padres edged the Brewers. Derrel Thomas' 10th inning single delivered the deciding run.

Finley, Blue Nearer

OAKLAND (AP) — Owner Charles Finley of the Oakland Athletics says he and star pitcher Vida Blue are within $20,000 of each other in bargaining for Blue's services in 1972.
Finley says Blue came to see him at 1 a.m. Monday morning and in a three-hour session offered to pitch for Finley's standing offer—$50,000—on one condition which Finley declined to define but said was unacceptable. On Saturday, said Finley, Blue had asked for a $70,000 contract.
Blue, whose salary was $14,750 last year, his first full season in the majors, wound up the biggest individual drawing card in the business with a 24-8 record and the American League's Cy Young and Most Valuable Player awards.
The 22-year-old wonder from Mansfield, La., began dicker with Finley Jan. 8, aided by attorney Robert J. Gerst of Los Angeles, and asked initially for $115,000. Finley says he has stuck with $50,000.

Confused Drug Ruling AMTRAK Against Proposed Rules

BENTON, Ark. (AP) — Considerable confusion may develop in the next few weeks because of a state Supreme Court ruling on drugs. Pros. Atty. James Guy Tucker Jr. of Little Rock said Monday.

The Supreme Court held March 13 that under a 1971 law, the Uniform Controlled Substances Act, it was a misdemeanor and not a felony to be convicted of possession of illegal drugs, including marijuana.

In some cases, persons were charged by felony information and either were convicted or pleaded guilty.

Tucker, a declared candidate for the Democratic nomination for attorney general, said the problem is how to dispose of such cases.

He said his office handled 107 cases involving 130 people in 1971 and more than 100 cases against about 75 people in the first two months of this year.

An amendment to the law by the special legislative session in February specifically provided that the crime in question is a felony.

Tucker said a person convicted under the law might be moved from the penitentiary to the county penal farm, but that this might not solve the problem.

A term of one year at the county farm, he said, would be more severe than an equal term at the penitentiary, since penal farm inmates lack access to parole.

He said such a system might lead courts to rule that terms exceeding one year at the county farm constitute cruel and unusual punishment.

The 1971 act originally provided a felony-type penalty—imprisonment for a period of years—but did not specify that the imprisonment would be in the state penitentiary.

Since the penalty was not specified to be served in the penitentiary, the Supreme Court said, the law required that the offense be considered a misdemeanor, not a felony.

Tucker told a Benton civic club that young people need an education on the consequences of some of the acts that they may perform as they become adults.

VERNON HAUGLAND
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Amtrak, the national railroad passenger corporation, said today new rail service regulations proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission are impractical and unbearably expensive.

"The cumulative impact of the proposed regulations if adopted substantially in their present form could put Amtrak out of business and bring an end to intercity rail passenger service," the corporation said in a brief to the ICC.

One of the proposed requirements is that when rail lines converge to form a reasonably direct route between points, all trains must make a daylight connection with a wait of not more than six hours or a nighttime connection to a through car.

"It is literally impossible to comply with this requirement with present equipment and route structure," the brief said. "Even if funds were available for massive numbers of new trains to achieve mathematical compliance, the trains would be running on schedules completely out of phase with the requirements of primary markets, causing massive revenue loss."

"Similarly, the proposal to require Amtrak to maintain sufficient cars to meet periods would impose costs far beyond Amtrak's resources and beyond any appropriation Congress can reasonably be expected to provide."

The ICC also proposed to require Amtrak to hold all confirmed reservations until 30 minutes before trains leave.

The corporation said this requirement, while reasonable in some circumstances, "would make an absolute reservation system on certain high-demand routes."

Amtrak said that while it may be desirable that all stations be open at hours prescribed in the proposal and provide a full range of ticketing, baggage checking and other services, the reality is that adoption of such rules at this time would necessarily result in downgrading service to flag-stop status or eliminating it altogether at a number of unmanned stations where Amtrak is trying to maintain service.

The statement said the rigid requirement that advance reservations and specific seat assignments be provided on all coaches traveling more than three hours would completely undercut Amtrak's efforts to provide low-cost coach transportation on a nonreservation basis.

Devices Needed to Fight Loan Sharks

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Concealed recorders and wiretaps or electronic eavesdroppers are critically important in fighting the loan shark racket, the head of the Justice Department's organized crime section says.

Edward T. Joyce, acting chief of the section, told a House consumer affairs subcommittee today that enforcers generally must rely on information from a victim, who usually has been intimidated into extortion payments by threats of beating or worse.

"The victim himself may be willing to testify against his hoodlum creditor, but without corroboration such testimony is seldom trial-worthy," Joyce said in prepared testimony. "Consequently in many loan shark cases the government has asked the victim if he would consent to wearing a body recorder or transmitter during his next meeting."

This technique was used in about 66 organized crime-linked extortion cases, Joyce said.

In other cases, where victims are too frightened to testify, "probable cause of extortionate credit transactions involving certain telephones or particularized premises will furnish the support for a court-ordered wiretap or electronic bug even without a cooperating victim," Joyce said.

Joyce said loansharking is now at least a very close third to gambling and the narcotics traffic as a source of income to organized crime.

Moreover, he said, it also provides a channel for underworld infiltration of legitimate business.

WEAPONS IN JAIL

Weather Is Pleasant

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Pleasantly mild spring weather prevailed over much of the nation today, but the exceptions were dramatic:

—Houston was coping with 7 inches of rain that fell through Monday and into the night, and some residents of the city got to their homes by motorboat.

—Oklahoma City recovered after being pounded by quarter-inch hail and winds gusting to 60 miles per hour.

—Portions of Texas and Louisiana were under a tornado watch, while the Gulf Coast in general was pelted by heavy rains.

Elsewhere, the North Pacific Coast saw a few scattered showers, the Great Lakes region got scattered showers and thunderstorms, and rain dampened southeast Florida.

Temperatures were warm through the South, mild through the North and in the upper 20s in northern New England.

Readings before dawn ranged from 4 at Houlton, Maine, to 75 at Needles, Calif.

Some other reports: Anchorage 28 clear, Atlanta 58 cloudy, Boston 37 cloudy, Buffalo 32 clear, Chicago 57 cloudy, Cincinnati 55 partly cloudy, Cleveland 44 partly cloudy, Dallas 61 cloudy, Denver 33 clear, Detroit 38 cloudy, Honolulu 75 clear, Indianapolis 49 partly cloudy, Kansas City 58 cloudy, Los Angeles 56 cloudy, Louisville 55 partly cloudy, Miami 73 clear, Minneapolis-St. Paul 41 rain, Nashville 60 partly cloudy, New York City 33 clear, Philadelphia 33 clear, Phoenix 66 clear, Pittsburgh 40 clear, St. Louis 57 cloudy, San Francisco 49 partly cloudy, Seattle 45.

After World War II the Philippine government urged settlers to move to underdeveloped Mindanao to relieve the land shortage in the overcrowded northern islands.

Busing Issues, Answers

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are some questions and answers concerning President Nixon's proposals for a freeze on new court busing orders and enactment of a new nationwide desegregation policy.

Q. How can Congress stop the courts from issuing busing orders?

A. The Constitution gives Congress the power, with a few exceptions, to fix the jurisdiction of the federal courts. The administration, relying mostly on this provision, says it is satisfied its proposal is constitutional. Some constitutional experts disagree, however, and the Supreme Court is likely to have the final say.

Q. What would happen to districts already under busing orders during a court freeze on busing?

A. Nothing. The moratorium would only prevent new orders from being issued between the date of enactment of the freeze and July 1, 1973, or until an alternative desegregation program was adopted, whichever came first.

Q. Would adoption of the new policy affect districts already under busing orders?

A. It depends on what the policy provides in the way of remedies to overcome desegregation. If a school district was under a court order that required stricter remedies than the new policy called for, the district would be able to petition the court for a new order reducing its remedies to those the new law required. The administration says the great bulk of existing court orders would not be affected by the policy it is recommending.

Q. What about districts where busing plans are being drawn and orders are likely to be issued before Congress has had a chance to enact the moratorium?

A. The Justice Department plans to intervene in such cases and ask the courts to stay their orders, taking judicial notice of the President's request for the moratorium. Intervention is planned immediately in Richmond and Denver.

Q. Will the administration's proposal for a new policy apply equally to northern and southern schools?

A. It is being presented as a single, national policy that would apply equally in all regions of the country. By eliminating busing as a means of desegregating schools, however, the proposal would, it appears, have less impact on changing the status quo of racial balance in the North since busing has not yet been implemented there as much as in the South.

Q. If you can't bus to achieve desegregation, what are you supposed to do?

A. A priority list of remedies would be established, with the court required to use them in order. The first calls for assigning students to neighborhood schools and they get progressively more sweeping, leading up to the use of educational parks to promote integration. Busing, under extreme circumstances, could still be used on a temporary basis if it was clear nothing else would work.

Q. Would that result in much desegregation?

A. It seems unlikely the present pace would be continued. The administration feels that to the extent further desegregation requires ever-longer bus rides it is damaging to the educational experience. It prefers to see more effort put into improving the schools in areas where large minorities and poor people live.

Q. What is being proposed to improve the schools?

A. The administration plans to concentrate nearly $2.5 billion on basic instructional programs for low-income pupils. It will require that school districts spend as much on their poorest schools as on their wealthier ones.

Q. Is $2.5 billion enough for such a job?

A. Probably not. That much is already being spent or budgeted for similar purposes and Congress will undoubtedly increase the amount if it enacts the program.

Q. What are the chances for enactment?

A. The moratorium appears to have a good chance, given the strong anti-busing mood now sweeping Congress. Adoption of a new policy during this election year will be more difficult.

personalized programming by whatever model or strategy."

Dr. Sam Clements, associate professor of psychiatry and pediatrics at the University of Arkansas Medical Center, spoke at a meeting of the New York Academy of Sciences.

"The schools of America have long curtsied to the concept of individual differences in children in the abstract, yet failed to give special recognition to the living individually different child who reported to school day after day," he said.

The doctor said the major ingredient of a successful program "is a learning environment which provides a measure of protection for the child" until he achieves a higher level of central nervous system maturity and integration.

Clements said that when a child reaches a no-progress plateau, "the teacher as well as others must operate with the understanding that the plateaus are not her fault and that she should temporarily abandon the big push for presently unattainable skills."

The first step in many squeezes has been given the high-falutin' name of "rectifying the count."

With almost all squeezes you use the squeeze to gain just one trick. Hence, it may be necessary to give away a trick or even two tricks to prepare your squeeze.

Today's hand is the same as yesterday's except that East and West have acquired the queen of diamonds in place of a small card in the suit. The contract is also less. South is trying for six no-trump only.

He counts 11 top tricks. The 12th will come in if either clubs or diamonds break 3-3 or if one opponent holds four cards in each suit and a squeeze can be developed.

South has to lose a diamond trick some time or other irrespective of how the East and West cards divide. The best time to lose it is right away so at trick two South plays low diamonds from both hands.

This way he keeps 10 of his top cards. He had to use one at the first trick. There are 11 tricks to go and he has rectified the count.

He wins whatever suit is returned and cashes his spades and hearts. East has to discard a diamond or club on the last of these spades and hearts and has been squeezed out of his stopper in that suit.

Arkadelphia Quiet But Only 50% Are Attending Classes

ARKADELPHIA, Ark. (AP) — Attendance was about 50 per cent below normal but classes at Arkadelphia High School resumed Monday without incidents as police officers patrolled the halls.

About 25 Negro pupils walked out of class. Some parents kept their children home to protest the use of police at the school and others for fear of violence, school officials said.

Classes were canceled last Thursday after a dozen whites were injured in two separate racial incidents, which resulted in the arrest of 19 blacks and two whites.

The defendants were to appear in Municipal Court here today to face charges.

Pros. Atty. W. H. Arnold, Deputy Pros. Atty. Travis Mathis, Police Chief Marvin Miller and Sheriff Billy Hasley of Clark County, along with other policemen and sheriff's deputies, were in the school and on the campus when classes resumed Monday.

The school board held a special meeting Sunday and apparently violated the law in the way it conducted business.

The law permits closed meetings for personnel problem discussions, but Dr. Joe T. Clark, board president, was quoted as saying the board not only discussed personnel matters, but also other things when it went into executive session.

Supt. Robert Stephens announced after the meeting that the board had agreed to meet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the high school auditorium with parents concerned about the school situation.

Principal Bill Ward said some students would be suspended five days and others would be expelled in connection with the arrests stemming from the disturbance last Thursday.

Thinks Pipeline Will Go Through

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Gov. William Egan of Alaska says the Interior Department's statement on the environmental impact of proposed oil pipelines through his state probably will be sufficient for the department to grant a right-of-way permit for the line within 45 days.

But three environmental groups that obtained a court injunction more than a year ago holding up issuance of the permit now say they will demand public hearings on the statement.

Interior Undersecretary William T. Pecora says hearings would be a circus and "would interfere with a more thoughtful and rational analysis." Hearings were held last year after a preliminary environmental statement was issued.

The nine-volume impact statement released Monday was ordered by a federal court after the environmental groups demanded that Interior study the environmental effects of the proposed line that would run nearly 800 miles across Alaska from the oil-rich Prudhoe Bay on the North Slope to an ice-free tanker port at Valdez to the south.

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., a consortium of seven oil companies, is seeking permission to build the line.

The impact statement considered the Alyeska proposal as one of five possible pipeline routes leading to Alaskan ports and four trans-Canada land routes that would eliminate the need for tankers to carry the oil to the U.S. West Coast.

Egan, speaking at an impromptu news conference in Juneau Monday, said no specific route or system other than the Alaskan overland route had been analyzed and that no specific proposal for a trans-Canada route had been submitted to the Interior Department.

The report said it could not evaluate the potential oil loss from a pipeline break, "but perfect no-spill performance would be unlikely during the lifetime of the pipeline."

Comparing their impact on the ocean environment, the report noted that a Canadian route would have the lowest impact from oil spillage because it would not involve tanker transport at all.

As for unavoidable impact on land-based life systems, the report said a Bering Sea route would have the least impact and a trans-Alaska-Canada coastal route the next lowest.

In their effect on the land itself, the report said, "it appears that the trans-Alaska routes would have less impact than the trans-Alaska-Canada routes."

Helena Gets a New Plant

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Dan Roebuck, director of the state Department of Industrial Development, said Monday that a carbon dioxide byproduct plant will be built at Helena to produce liquid carbon dioxide.

Plant investment will exceed $1 million, Roebuck said. The plant, which will employ 15 persons, is expected to be completed before the summer of 1973.

It will be operated by Liquid Carbonic Corp., a subsidiary of Houston Natural Gas Corp., through an arrangement with Arkla Chemical Corp., a subsidiary of Arkansas Louisiana Gas Co.

Liquid Carbonic is the world's largest supplier of carbon dioxide in its various forms and also produces and sells other industrial, medical and specialty gases.

Says Housing Funds Frozen

ROGERS, Ark. (AP) — Rep. David Pryor, D-Ark., a candidate for the U.S. Senate, said Monday night that the Department of Housing and Urban Development has millions of dollars in housing assistance program funds frozen while communities "go lacking for aid."

Pryor said information about the frozen funds was in a report he received as a member of the House Appropriations Committee.

He said the report has not been made public. He said the funds probably would not be used by HUD this fiscal year.

Pryor attacked the freeze and said government action was needed to assure "an adequate supply of credit to stimulate the development of more and better housing."

Pryor told the Northwest Arkansas Homebuilders Association that the nation cannot continue to "rely solely on traditional monetary policies."

He said the times may require "more selective means of rationing credit to preclude expansion of productive facilities for items of lower social priority."

"And to this end we must continually re-examine our priorities," he said. "It may require direct government loans to maintain housing production at high and first-rate levels when private sources of funds dry up."

Blacks Ask for Recount

MARIANNA, Ark. (AP) — Two Negro candidates who lost in last Tuesday's school elections here have asked for a recount.

They are Harvey L. Williams, who lost to incumbent Norman French by a vote of 2,027-3,033, and James Burnett, who lost to Dan Miller by a vote of 2,023-3,043.

In a letter to the Lee County Election Commission, the two blacks contended that Negroes were not represented "in any way, shape or form" on the commission and that they were systematically excluded from the positions of election judge and clerk.

Wants Water Rate Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Public Service Commission was asked for a rate increase Monday by the Morriton Water Co.

The firm, which is owned by the General Waterworks Corp. of Philadelphia, said its rate of return on investment had been declining since 1963 as its cost of business increased. It said its present rate of return was 1.5 per cent, which it said was not a fair return.

The company said it had just completed a construction program that would provide better service to its customers.

The firm asked for a rate increase of about $142,000, which would give it a 9 per cent rate of return.

More File as Candidates

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Richard L. Hoyt, 60, of Johnson (Washington County), a restaurant owner, filed Monday as a Democrat for the state House in District 8.

Also filing Monday were:

—Rep. Harry Carter, 51, Little Rock, for re-election as a Democrat in Position 2 of District 5.

—Prosecutor Joe Holmes, 45, Pine Bluff, re-election as a Democrat in the 11th Judicial District.

—Rep. B. D. Brandon, 39, Little Rock, as a Democrat for re-election in Position 2 of District 4.

—Rep. Frank Henslee, 31, Pine Bluff, as a Democrat for re-election in District 52.

—Rep. H. Lacy Landers, 44, Benton, as a Democrat for re-election in District 33.

Columnist Claims ITT Triggered Chile Plot

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson says he has obtained secret documents that show International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. plotted with the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency to trigger a military coup in Chile to prevent the 1970 election of President Salvador Allende.

"These documents," Anderson said in his column published in Tuesday editions, "portray ITT as a virtual corporate nation in itself with vast international holdings, access to Washington's highest officials, its own intelligence apparatus and even its own classification system."

The column says ITT officials and William V. Broe, who reportedly was director of the Latin American division of the CIA's clandestine services, "were plotting together to create economic chaos in Chile, hoping this would cause the Chilean army to pull a coup that would block Allende from coming to power."

Anderson said parts of the plot are outlined in an Oct. 9, 1970, confidential report from ITT Vice President William Merriam to ITT Director John McCone, a former head of the CIA.

Purportedly relaying a conversation between himself and a CIA contact, Merriam was quoted as saying:

"Approaches continue to be made to select members of the armed forces in an attempt to have them lead some sort of uprising—no success to date..."

"Practically no progress has been made in trying to get American business to cooperate in some way so as to bring on economic chaos. GM and Ford, for example, say that they have too much inventory on hand in Chile to take any chances and that they keep hoping that everything will work out all right."

Hubert Humphrey

Changes Bus Stand Again

By ROBERT L. CAMPBELL
Associated Press Writer

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, reversing himself from his immediate reaction of applauding President Nixon's proposal for a moratorium on busing to achieve school desegregation, now says Nixon's plan deceives the American people and "is insensitive to the laws and the Constitution of this nation."

Humphrey's comments in a speech prepared for delivery in Milwaukee Monday night came at the same time two other leading Democrats criticized Nixon's proposal made last week in a nationally televised address, as demagogic.

Humphrey, campaigning for the April 4 Wisconsin primary, called on all Americans to "examine closely the fine print" of Nixon's plan for a moratorium on busing coupled with a $2.5-billion shot-in-the-arm for schools.

"And now that we have the full, fine-print details of his moratorium plan, I say he is tampering with the Constitution and the separation of powers and he is launching a frontal assault on the great progress this nation has made in equal education since 1954," the Minnesota senator said. He said the $2.5 billion Nixon proposed is not any new money but "simply a transfer of funds already appropriated by Congress."

Meanwhile Monday, in De Kalb, Ill., Sen. George McGovern, like Humphrey a candidate for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, said Nixon's televised address was "the most dangerous demagogic address ever delivered by a president of the United States." The South Dakota senator made the remarks to some 2,500 students in Northern Illinois University while campaigning for today's Illinois primary.

And Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, in a statement inserted in the Congressional Record, said Nixon's speech was "a belittling of the presidency."

"In a wholly emotional and transparently political television address, the President sought to identify himself with thousands of Americans who are frightened by the changes accompanying the end to school segregation in this land," Kennedy said.

"He chose," the Massachusetts senator continued, "neither to educate nor to encourage them. He chose instead to exploit their fears."

Justice Article Denied by the Persons Involved

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Life magazine's accusations that the Nixon administration "has seriously tampered with justice in San Diego" met with denials from most of the people named in the article.

But Sen. John Tunney, D-Calif., says the allegations deserve further investigation.

Life said Sunday in an investigative report that the administration had delayed prosecutions and curtailed investigations "in an effort to protect certain of its most important friends."

The U.S. attorney in San Diego, Harry D. Steward, denied Monday the article's allegations that he squelched an investigation involving wealthy Nixon supporter C. Arnholt Smith and that the administration held up the tax-evasion investigation of businessman John Allesio, former manager of the Caliente racetrack in nearby Tijuana, Mexico.

Former Mayor Frank Curran, named by Life as another beneficiary of administration manipulations, said the article was "fallacious, as far as it concerns me."

Life said Steward halted an investigation of reports that illegal political contributions were being funneled through a company controlled by Smith, a long-time friend of Nixon who raised money for his 1968 presidential campaign. The magazine also said Steward was appointed by Nixon on Smith's recommendation.

Steward said in an interview that similar accusations were made more than a year ago by an underground newspaper in San Diego and had been "thoroughly investigated by the Federal Bureau of Investigation at my request."

Frank Thornton, chairman of Nixon's 1968 campaign in San Diego, said a $2,068 campaign contribution was received from a Smith-controlled firm as Life said, but added that "it was returned—I think our records will show that."

There was no comment from Smith.
